“It’s fascinating to see how nine different artists interpret an art theme,” said Barbara Rogers, former mayor of Cupertino and Cupertino Library Foundation board member. “In this Cupertino Library Art Display, Go Figure!, the artists seem to portray change-in persons, things, landscapes. For some the change is happening in the present, and for others it has already happened or will happen over time. The marvelous thing about art is that it is so personal to the artist and yet the viewer can see the same piece quite differently. Art is very individual and wonderful.”
